

National and Kapodistrian University of Athens – School of Philosophy

BA Program in the Archaeology, History, and Literature of Ancient Greece

A four-year BA program taught in English, devoted to the study of Greek Antiquity. The program is offered by the National and Kapodistrian University of Athens in collaboration with the International Hellenic University.

Running: from 1 September 2020

Fees: € 6,000 p/a

Application deadline: 31 March 2020

A new, attractive and innovative BA Program on the culture of Ancient Greece

Overview:

The program offers a wide-ranging degree on Classical Greek culture. Students will have the opportunity to study the archaeological monuments and the history of Greece and familiarize themselves with the ancient Greek language through the systematic examination of important ancient texts. The curriculum will also include a number of classes in Modern Greek. The interdisciplinary nature of the program allows students to think both critically and imaginatively, write well-structured essays, as well as interpret complex sets of data.

On-site instruction:

All archaeology classes include field trips to archaeological sites and museums within Athens and its environs; in addition, students are expected to participate in a series of longer field trips around Greece, including the Peloponnese, Central Greece and Macedonia, as well as the islands of Santorini, Naxos, and Crete. Students are also welcome to attend, on a voluntary basis and subject to their academic schedule, the Departmental Archaeological Excavation in Marathon (April / May).

Who may apply:

The program is available to non-EU citizens only, and is suitable for high school graduates with an interest in the ancient world and its cultural and intellectual achievements. Furthermore, the BA aspires to attract candidates who wish to acquire a broad liberal education with emphasis in original and avant-garde thinking. The four years are divided into eight semesters. The first year offers a number of foundation courses in the history and culture of ancient Greece, as well as an introduction to the methodology of the respective academic fields of archaeology, history and philology. The second and third years are devoted to the systematic study of ancient Greece, while the fourth year offers a range of specialized courses and seminars.
